PREFACE

In presenting the history and genealogy as contained in the following pages the author does not for one moment claim to have included the issue of each line or of each marriage, nor of all those descended from each family, but rather to carry out the descent of the direct line of the family to the first American ancestor, from whence those descended can arrive to that position where they can conveniently trace their lineage from the first ancestor arriving in America.

In the forthcoming pages many who have no record or who have not become members of any patriotic bodies or who have failed to avail themselves at a critical period of the requisite information, will find much aid in being enabled to trace to some ancestor their lineage as contained herein.

It may be very difficult in time to trace the lineage of those who, living in a country filled with an admixture of various races, to prove their pure blood from American ancestors who settled in this country, unless we keep a true record.

Although there are many references to the distinguished Bayard family there appears to be no connected line of descent from the three brothers, Balthazer, Petrus and Colonel Nicholas Bayard, the sons of Samuel Bayard and Ann Stuyvesant, which can be found together in one book. The author does not pretend to give all the lines and issues of the different branches, nor of all the children of each marriage, nor is any claim made that perfection of the genealogy of this family has been attained. Those descended from Nicholas Bayard and Catherine Livingston will find by consultation of the House of Alexander that they have a Royal lineage.

The history and genealogy of the Houston family is traced from the first ancestor as given in Crawford's History of the Shire of Renfrew, to the family who settled in Georgia and the Royal lineage of the line from Sir Patrick Houston is proven by his marriage to the daughter of Lord Bargaeny who in turn married a daughter of the first Marquis of Baulle of the House of France.

The family of Bolton of Georgia has been already written and printed by Rev. Robert Bolton, Reginald Bolton and Dr. H. Car-

Finkton Bolton, and the lines of the families are to be found in the Habersham and other Southern Families and the Lineage Book of the Order of Washington. Therefore to avoid a long repetition of names we simply trace the family to Robert Bolton of Philadelphia, Pa. at whose children, several of whom removed to Georgia and Maryland, and some of their descendants to New York and Virginia. The point in the Bolton Lineage is to show the descent from the ancient families of Asheton, Hulton of Hulton Park, and the Royal Lineage through the families of Byron, Barnake, Dryden and de Tates and to Mabel Albini, daughter of the Earl of Arundel and hence to Charlemagne. As was the Hulton-Finkington marriage to the Earls of Warren, to which line through the Queen Bee of the Hive, Elizabeth the daughter of Hugh the Great Count of Vermandois, carries us back to the Houses of Capet and Charlemagne. Although not mentioned in this work, a branch of the Adams family of Georgia is doubly descended from the one of Byron through the Bolton as has been stated, the other from Roade of Virginia by a marriage of Robert Roade to Mildred, daughter of Sir Francis Windesbanke and Lady Windesbanke, daughter of Sir Edward Dymoke and Ann Talboys.

From the Horistoun family we find branches of the following lines descended, such as Johnston, McIntosh, Clinch, Sadler, Cole, Kellogg, Anderson of Georgia, Waring, Molyneux, Hopkins, Demere, Sullivan, Chisholm and others.

From the Dalton line, branches of the families of Habersham, Maxwell, Milledge, Lesesne, Colquitt, Demere, Adams, Elliott, McBryde, Newell, Turner, Bullock, and others.

The author has consulted many works and taken the requisite information from them, and takes this means of thanking the authors of the following: Ancient Families of Schenck Manor, by Rev. Charles Payson Mallery; The Livingstons of Livingston Manor, by Edward Brookholst Livingston; The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record; Historic Homes of the State of New York, by John C. O'Sullivan; The Spectator; The American Genealogist; The American Historical and Biographical Magazine; The American Historical Record; and Barodetage, &c; Stearns-Robertson et Durbin; Foster's County Families of Lincolnshire. BAYARD Arms:¹ Azure, a chevron between three escallops, or.

Crest: A demi-horse argent.

Motto: Amor honor et justitia

This ancient, noble and very prominent family of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Georgia took its rise in France, but the persecutions of the Huguenots appear to have driven them to Holland, where we find at an early day Rev. Nicholas Bayard, D. D., author of a treatise on Church and State, and a professor in a College prior to 1594, who had a son, Rev. Lazare Bayard.

Among the prominent ancestors of the family we find John Nicholas Bayard, an Alderman of the City of New Amsterdam, or New York, who in the days of the early history of the Colony was one of its foremost citizens; as also Petrus Bayard, Alderman; Samuel Bayard, Colonel John Bubenheim¹ Bayard a most distinguished citizen who occupied many positions of prominence; the Delaware Bayards, five of whom became United States Senators; Dr. Nicholas Sen Bayard, who removed to Georgia and was one of the founders of the Georgia Medical Society in 1695; and his son, Nicholas James a banker; as also Rev. George Livingston Bayard, Chaplain in U. S. Navy.

² General James Grant Gibson had despaired of finding the ancestor of Bayard, when later on he found Rev. Nicholas Bayard, a pastor in a Church in Holland.

³ General James Grant Gibson had despaired of finding the ancestor of Bayard, when later on he found Rev. Nicholas Bayard, a pastor in a Church in Holland.

In New York the family descended from or was allied to the foremost families, among whom were the Stuyvesants, Van Cortlandts, Livingstons, Van Rensselaers, Schuylers, Cuylers, Van Brughs and others, in Pennsylvania and Delaware such families as Asheton, Bassett and Hodge; and in Georgia descended from or related to the Glens, Kings, McIntoshes, Bullocks, Seays and others.

Among a large number of Huguenot refugees who were driven from France by the edict of October 25, 1685, were many who fled to Holland, among whom were the Bayards.

In May of the year 1647, Mrs. Samuel Bayard, who was Ann Stuyvesant, sister of Governor Peter Stuyvesant, left the Old World, having lost her husband who died in Holland prior to that date, and accompanied by her four children, Baltazar, Petrus, Nicholas and Catharine, arrived in New Amsterdam, now New York. Judith, the sister of Samuel Bayard, had married the Director General, Peter Stuyvesant, and thus there was a double relationship between the families of Bayard and Stuyvesant.

We will now proceed to give the genealogy of this ancient family, which in every way became one of the foremost in America.

This line as heretofore accepted begins with Rev. Nicholas Bayard, a pastor in Holland in 1590, who it is stated married Slandina Condé and had Lazare Bayard, who married 1607, Judith de Vos and had Samuel Bayard, who married Ann

Stuyvesant, who arrived in New Amsterdam with her children in 1647, but the version as stated in the address on the genealogy of the family by General Jan's Grant Wilson is as follows: (Certain it is, however, that the ancestor was Rev. Nicholas Bayard, there being no disagreement in regard to this matter it would appear.)

Samuel Bayard, who died in Holland before 1647, was the son of Rev. Balthazar Bayard or of another Samuel, married 1638, Ann Stuyvesant, daughter of Rev. Balthazar Stuyvesant, of Friesland, and Margaret Hardenstein, Ann Stuyvesant being the sister of Director General Stuyvesant.

By this marriage of Samuel Bayard to Ann Stuyvesant there were:

I. Petrus Bayard, died 1690; married Nov. 4, 1674, Blandina Kierstede, who died in New York in 1702. She was daughter of Surgeon or Doctor Hans Kierstede, of Magdeburg, who married, June 29, 1642, Sarah Roelofs, a daughter of Jans Roelofs by his marriage to the celebrated heiress, Anneke Jans.

II. Balthazar Bayard, married 1664, Maria Lockerman.

III. Col. Nicholas Bayard, married 1663-4, Judith Varleth, daughter of Casper Varleth, whose brother Nicholas was Ambassador to Virginia from New Amsterdam.

IV. Catharine Bayard, married William De Meyer.

EXCURSUS GLEN.

This ancient family of Glen, of Linlithgow, Scotland, unquestionably descended from the family of Barons, as proved by the similarity of arms and by the assertion of several authors. In Linlithgow they were most prominent, holding at different times the position of Provost and being members of the Scotch Parliament. The line from which the Georgia branch derives its descent is apparently the following, as it is asserted that William Glen, of Charleston, S. C., was son of John Glen, of Linlithgow, and the arms of the Georgia family are those borne by the Linlithgow line. James Glen the elder, 165-51, was baron and Provost of the Burgh. He had, besides others, John Glen, esq., died Jan. 31, 1690, married Helen Robertson, and had William Glen, baptized Dec. 14, 1688, married Helen Henderson and had John Glen, baptized Sept. 13, 1697, who at that time must have been the father of William Glen, born 1711, who seems to have come to Philadelphia and met there Ann Atkins, daughter of William Atkins, son of John Peter Atkins, of London, a very early settler in that Colony or Province. Besides others, William Glen and Ann Atkins had John Glen, Chief Justice of Georgia, 1733-7, who married Sarah, the daughter of Dr. Hugh Wymberley Jones and Sir John, son-in-law of John Davis, Esq. Dr. N. W. Jones was son of Hon. Hille Jones and Miss Wymberley. Judge John Glen and Sarah Jones had, besides others, John Wymberley Glen, City Marshal of Savannah, Ga., who had Sarah Wymberley Glen, who married General Vase Tracy.

*So considered by Captain Douglas Wymberley.

NOTE.—As the object of this short account of the Glens is merely to show the direct line of several in this book, we have omitted dates and other matters which will be fully set forth when the history of the Glen family, now nearly finished, is ready for publication. The history and genealogy of the families of Alrices and Wessells has been already published by Drs. Adams and Badger, as has the family of Noble Jones, of Georgia. It is proper here to state that William Glen removed to Charleston, S. C., at an early date and died there; his other son, John Glen, removing to Savannah, Ga.

The author has a full account of Glen, taken from the records sent him.

Nicholas James Bayard married third, Eliza King, died 1840, widow of Bayard Hand and daughter of Roswell King, of ancient family, who married Catharine Barrington, daughter of Josiah Barrington, and had:

I. Nicholas James Bayard, married Grace Battey, daughter of Dr. Robert Battey, and had:

1. Emma H. Bayard, born 1871, died 1881.

2. Julia B. Bayard, born 1874; married Frank Dabney Holland.

3. Robert B. Bayard.

4. Nicholas R. Bayard, born 1884.

II. Nicholas Ralph Bayard, married Miss Cecil, of Columbia, S. C.

III. Ann Livingston Bayard, born Roswell, Georgia, Feb. 3, 1850; died Baywood, Darien, Ga., May 18, 1918; married 1867, James Alfred Atwood, born Jan. 29, 1840; died Feb. 18, 1906, at Darien, Ga. They had the following children:

I. Elise Barrington Atwood, married John P. Dewey.

II. Alfred Livingston Atwood, married Elizabeth Tulley and had two children.

III. Bayard McIntosh Atwood, married Sara Thacher and had:

1. Bayard McIntosh Atwood.

IV. Isabelle Quintard Atwood, born April 3, 1878, at "Baywood," near Darien, Georgia; married June 14, 1901, Dr. Ernest Lester de Cornman, of Columbia, S. C., and had:

I. Elise de Grant Atwood, born Jan. 23, 1902.

II. Quintard Atwood Bay, of Cornman, born Jan. 3, 1904.

III. Elise de Grant Cornman, born Feb. 2, 1906.

V. Ruth Margaret Atwood, married Nicholas Cady, both deceased.

VI. Ann Rosalie Atwood, married Ludwig M. Schmidt and had:

I. Freida Schmidt.

II. Carl Schmidt.

III. Rosalie Schmidt.

VII. Sara Alice Atwood, married James Brantley Williams and had:

I. James Bayard Williams.

II. Robert Williams.

VIII. James Kenneth Atwood, married Evelyn, daughter of Judge Odlin.

IX. Mabelle du Terrail Atwood, born October, 1892.

MCKENZIE—MCINTOSH.

Donald McKenzie, the ancestor of the Atwood family of Georgia, appears to have been one of the Highland Clan who accompanied John Moore McIntosh, the Highland Chieftain, to Georgia. He had granted to him by King George III a tract of land called "Oak Hill," near Darien, Ga. He married Mary Merriman, daughter of an English officer, and it is stated that she came to Georgia in the family of General Oglethorpe. Among the early settlers in the Colony we find the name of Merriman. John Coper, connected with the Jones family of Georgia, married a Miss Merriman.

Donald McKenzie and Mary Merriman had a daughter, Ann McKenzie, who lived all of her life of 110 years at "Cedar Point," a tract of land granted to William Johnston. She was born about 1783 and died in 1894, she married John Butts, and they had a son, John Lachlan McIntosh, who married Margaret McCulloch and had a daughter, Ann Margaret McIntosh, who married Henry Harrison Atwood and had:

I. James Alfred Atwood, married Ann Livingston Bayard.

II. Ruth Ann Atwood, married Dr. William Edgar Denton.

III. William Henry Atwood, married first, Miss Butts; second, Louise Butts.

Marjory McIntosh, daughter of Col. William McIntosh, married James Spalding, of the family of Ashtaffly, and had among others Elizabeth Spalding, who married — Wyby from which marriage descended Ludwig M. Schmidt who married Ann Rosalie Atwood.

The family of John McIntosh lived at Cedar Point, which was granted to William Johnston. Among the other settlers of the Darien Colony we find the McCullochs, Cuthberts, &c. (See History of Georgia.)

IV. Jane Atwood, married George Camp.

V. George Elliott Atwood, married Sophie La Roche.

VI. John McIntosh Atwood, married first, Maria La Roche; second, Clare La Roche.

VII. Matilda Atwood, married Charles Hopkins.

VIII. Margaret Atwood, married Dr. Geiler.

Dr. James Asheton Bayard, brother of Col. John Bayard (sons of James Bayard and Mary Asheton), married Ann Hodge, sister of Margaret Hodge, who married Col. John Bayard (daughters of Andrew Hodge and Margaret McCulloch), and had:

I. John Hodge Bayard, born Jan. 11, 1762; settled in Camberland County, Maryland; married and had issue; died 1820.

II. Jane Bayard, born Feb. 13, 1765; never married.

III. James Asheton Bayard, a most distinguished citizen, U. S. Senator, &c., was born July 28, 1767. Died Wilmington, Delaware, August 6, 1815; married 1795, Ann Bassett, daughter of Senator Richard Bassett, of Delaware, a prominent citizen, and had:

1. Richard Bayard, married Miss Carroll.

2. Caroline Bayard.

3. James Asheton Bayard, married Miss Francis, of Philadelphia.

4. Edward Bayard, married Miss Johnson of New York.

5. Mary Bayard.

6. Henry M. Bayard.

Balthazer Bayard, of New Amsterdam, son of Samuel Bayard and Anna Suyvesant, married Maria Lockermans and had:

I. Samuel Bayard, born Sept. 29, 1665; died young.

II. Anaentje (Aricentie) Bayard, born Nov. 18, 1667; died Nov. 29, 1667; m. Oct. 26, 1667, Samuel Verplanck, son of Gelyn Verplanck and Hendrickje Wessells.

VIII. Judith Bayard, bap. May 23, 1683; m. March 5, 1723, Gerardus Stuyvesant, son of Nicholas Stuyvesant and Elizabeth Van Schlechtenhorst.

Colonel Nicholas Bayard, of New York, a distinguished citizen, Alderman of New York, was the youngest son of Samuel Bayard and Ann Stuyvesant; married in 1633 Judith Varleth or Varlet, daughter of Casper Varleth, whose brother Nicholas Varleth was Ambassador to Virginia. Colonel Nicholas Bayard (died in 1711) and Judith Varleth or Varlet had:

1. Samuel Bayard, baptized Sept. 5, 1636; a distinguished citizen, member of Colonial Assembly and a Judge, married March 12, 1656, Margaretta Van Cortlandt, baptized August 12, 1674, daughter of Captain Stephen Van Cortlandt, born May 7, 1643, and Gertruyt Schuyler, daughter of Philip Peterse Schuyler and Margarita Van Schlechtenhorst. Captain Stephen Van Cortlandt was son of Thomas Oliver Stephannus Van Cortlandt (Capt. Stevenen Van Cortlandt) and Jane Lindermans. By this marriage of Samuel Bayard, there was issue:

1. Judith Bayard, married Rip Von Dam.

2. Nicholas Bayard, married July 3, 1739, Elizabeth Rynders.

Jacobus Bayard and Hillegond de Kay had Balthazer Bayard, who married Hillegond de Kay, daughter of Jacobus de Kay.

Govert Bayard married Hillegond de Kay, daughter of Jacobus de Kay, and had issue.

Note.—Colonel Nicholas Bayard and Judith Varleth may have had other issue, but we are only concerned with the issue of Samuel Bayard.

3. Stephanus Bayard, baptized May 31, 1700; married Alida Vetch.

4. Gertruyd Bayard, married Hon. Peter Kemble.

5. Margaretta Bayard, died young.

6. Margaretta Bayard, " "

7. Samuel Bayard, married Catharine Van Horn.

8. Janus Bayard.

9. Margaretta Bayard, married Jacobus Van Home.

10. Anna Bayard.

11. Catherine Bayard.

Nicholas Bayard, son of Samuel Bayard and Margaretta Van Cortlandt, married first, July 3, 1729, Elizabeth Rynders, daughter of Barent Rynders and Hester Leister, baptized Oct. 8, 1678, daughter of the celebrated Captain Jacob Leister and Elsie Tymsens, and had, not arranged in order of birth, the following children:

I. Hester Bayard.

II. Samuel Bayard.

III. Samuel Bayard.

IV. Margarita Bayard.

V. Nicholas Bayard, baptized Nov. 14, 1736; married April 20, 1762, Catharine Livingston, baptized Oct. 2, 1743.

VI. Margaretta Bayard.

VII. Judith Bayard.

VIII. Barent Rynders Bayard.

IX. Elizabeth Bayard.

X. Jeremian Bayard.

Nicholas Bayard married second, Margdret Van Beverhout and had:

I. Eliza Bayard.

II. Ann Bayard.

III. Stephen Bayard.

Nicholas Bayard, son of Nicholas Bayard and Elizabeth Rynders, married Catharine Livingston, daughter of Peter Van Brugh Livingston, married 1751, Mary, sister of Peter of Albany.

See next page for details of his life and family, and of birth of each of the above.

*New York Genealogical Record puts him down as baptized Nov. 14, 1733.

Alexander, member of Council and Surveyor General of Province of New Jersey; who married Marion, widow of Samuel Prevost and daughter of John Sackett, of Wilton, Galloway; who married August 26, 1878, Mary, widow of Paulus Schrick and daughter of Johannes de Peyster and Cornelia Lubberts, a relative of the de la Noys.

Philip Van Bruch Livingston, born 1710, was son of Philip Livingston, born Albany, N. Y., 1680, second Lord of the Manor, and Catharine Van Bruch, daughter of Peter Van Brugh and Sarah Cuyler; and Philip Livingston was son of Robert Livingston, first Lord of Manor, and Anna Schuyler, daughter of Philip Peterse Schuyler and Margherita Van Schlechtenhorst. Robert Livingston, who came to America in 1674, was son of John Livingston, a Scotch clergyman, born 1654, of Roxburghshire, of the family of Livingstons of Callendar.

Nicholas Bayard and Catherine Livingston had:

I. Mary or Maria Bayard, married Hon. William Houstoun, of Georgia.

II. Ann Livingston Bayard, married 1798, Dr. Nicholas Serri Bayard, of New Jersey, and had:

1. Nicholas James Bayard, which see.

LIVINGSTON.

This ancient and noble line extends back to a remote period, and in New York we find the family occupying many positions of prominence.

We will, however, begin the genealogy with Sir John de Livingston, Sheriff of Lanark, 1273, whose daughter, Sir William Callendar, of Callendar and subsequently of Kilguth, married Christian, daughter of Sir Patrick Callendar, and had: Sir John Livingston, who married, first, a daughter of Menteith of Kerse and second, a daughter of Sir James Douglas, of Dalkeith, from whom descended the family of Kilmuth. Sir John fell in battle 1402 at Halidon Hill, slain by the daughter of Menteith of Kerse. Sir Alexander Livingston, who had:

I. Sir James Livingston, a Lord of Parliament, 1458, barony of Callendar.

II. Alexander Livingston, ancestor of Danipare line.

Sir James, Lord Livingston, had a son James, second Lord, who was succeeded as third Lord by James Livingston, who is considered to be the son of Alexander, supposed to be the second son of James, the first Lord.

James Livingston, third Lord Livingston, married Agnes, daughter of Sir John Houston of that ilk, and had: William Livingston, fourth Lord of Callendar, who married Agnes, daughter of Alexander Hepburn of Whitesome, and had:

I. Alexander Livingston, fifth Lord.

II. James Livingston, died prior to October 19, 1747; fell at the battle of Pinkie.

James Livingston, son of the fifth Lord, had: Rev. Alexander Livingston, Rector of Montrose, 1681, during the reign of Mary Queen of Scots. His son, Rev. William Livingston, minister of Montrose and the noted Rev. John Livingston, of Anstruther, died 1729; married Janet Fleming (born 1694, died 1744). Besides other sons there was Robert Livingston (born 1694, died 1744). Besides other sons there was Robert Livingston, born 1694, died 1744, who spent some time in the colonies in the colony of New York where he had the grant of a tract of land called Livingston Manor and he was first Lord of the Manor. He married Abigail Schuyler (born 1694, died 1724), and had: Robert Livingston, who had: Peter John Brath Livingston (died Nov. 2, 1711, died 1783). He married Mary Alexander (born Oct. 16, 1721, died Sept. 27, 1769). She was daughter of James Alexander, who went to New Jersey and became Surveyor General of New Jersey, and in 1726 member of Governor Burnett's Council. James Alexander died 1750, married Mary, daughter of John Spratt, of Wilkes, Scotland, who came to America. These Alexanders were of Dutch lineage, tracing from Adriaen of Albany, son of Jan, who married a daughter of Robert III. Peter Van Brugh Livingston and Mary Alexander had: Catherine Livingston, baptised Oct. 2, 1749; married April 24, 1760, New York Brevards; died Nov. 2, 1772.

¹See Vol. I, History of House of Alexander, page 290.

The direct line of Livingston, of which the first whom I descend the Earls of Lincolnton, is as follows, as given in The Scots Peerage:

Sir William Livingston married Catherine Callender and had: Sir William Livingston, second. Sir John Livingston, who married first a daughter of Montfith of Kerse. He married second, Agnes, daughter of Sir James Douglas of Duff, and was ancestor of Livingston of Kilsyth.

Sir John Livingston by a daughter of Montfith of Kerse, had: Sir Alexander of Callender, who married a daughter of family of Dundas of Dundas and had: James Livingston, first Lord, who by Maria had: James Livingston, second Lord, and probably Alexander whose son, Sir James, became third Lord, who married before 9 June, 1491 (died 1501), Agnes, daughter of Sir John Bisset one of the first, and had: William, fourth Lord, who married Agnes, daughter of Herburn of Whitsome, and had:

- I. Alexander Livingston.
- II. Mr. James Livingston.
- III. William Livingston.
- IV. Margaret Livingston.

In the Adenda and Corridenda of Scots Peerage it is stated that Mr. James Livingston may have married and have been the father of Rev. Alexander Livingston of Mangaboch, ancestor of the Livingstons of New York. See also deduction by Mr. Edin Droghda-Livingston in his work.

In same Peerage the Livingstons of Kilsyth line are given as follows:

Sir John Livingston of Callender married Agnes Douglas.

Edward Livingston, son of above by Agnes Douglas, had: William Livingston, who married Elizabeth Graham of the house of Montrose and had: William Livingston, married 1544 Janet, daughter of Sir Robert Bruce of Airth and had: John, first Lord.

Elizabeth Livingston married George Cunningham of Glenrobert.

As has been shown, George Cunningham and Elizabeth Livingston had, among others, Janet, who married Sir Patrick Livingston.

MENTEITH OF CARSE OR KERSE

Maurice Menteith, of the ancient line of Earls of Menteith left two daughters:

- I. Elizabeth.
- II. Margaret.

Margaret, who married John, first Lord of Glenrobert, and Margaret, first High Sheriff of Scotland, had a son, who became fifth and last Menteith. The issue of this marriage were:

- * May have been brother of Sir John Sutherland.

I. Alexander Monteith.

II. Sir John Monteith, who married and had, besides others: Sir Walter Monteith, ancestor of Monteiths of Furry and Kerse or Carse.

This Walter Monteith of Furry had, besides others:

I. John Stewart, 1551, who married Margory Sterling, daughter of Sir John Sterling. ¹ See also a younger son of Sir John Sterling, Knight of Carse and Alex. Sheriff of Stirling, 1244-1273, of Ochiltree, son of Sir Alexander Sterling of Cawdor, 1170-1210.

Sir John Stewart, of Monteith, and Margory Sterling had, besides others, a daughter who married Sir John Livingston (his first wife) of Callendar and had issue (see Livingstons).

Sir John Livingston married second, Agnes, daughter of Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith, and thus became the progenitor of the Livingstons of Kilsyth.

Royal Lineage of Livingston of Callendar and New York from Dundas of Dundas.

According to Douglas, the family of Dundas of Dundas has, in the opinion of the historian, descended from the noble and illustrious line of Dunbar, Earls of March, who ascribe their descent from the Saxon kings of England through the Earls of Northumberland.

Cospatrik, 3rd Earl of March, died 1139, had issue:

I. Cospatrik.

II. Uchtred, first of the line of Dundas, who obtained from Wallene his uncle the lands of Dunbar. Uchtred had Helen, who obtained by charter the estate and became the countess of Dunbar. He was succeeded by Serle de Dunbar, 1159-1190, and thus the line runs down through many generations, to where its two branches of Dundas and Finlason separate.

According to Scot's Peerage and Douglas, Sir Alexander Livingston of Callendar married a daughter of James Dundas of Fingask, and had James Livingston, first of the name, of whom was the progenitor of the family of the Lords of Livingston and Earls of Livingston. We therefore find the Livingstons of Callendar are of royal lineage.

The Dundas of Fingask, and the Dundas of Kilsyth of whom the family of Dalkeith are a branch of royal descent, the latter being an Esq. of Houston of the Aisle.

ALEXANDER.

In the history of The House of Alexander, Volume I, we find an account of the Alexanders of New Jersey, and have deduced therefrom, apparently correctly the descent of the family, for which, see page 26 of that volume. This ancient line descends from Somerled, Prince of Argyll in 1140, who married Emma, daughter of Olave the Red, King of Man. From this marriage descended Kenneth, who had sons Donald and Frederick McDonald. Donald McDonald had three sons:

- I. Frederick McDonald.
- II. Angus McDonald.
- III. Alexander McDonald.

The grandson of Angus was John McDonald, Lord of the Isles, who married Princess Margaret Stewart, daughter of King Robert III. of Scotland. By this marriage they had among others, Anster or Alexander, progenitor of the McAlexander or Alexander family.

Prior to 1505 a descendant of Anster or Alexander, younger son of the Lord of Lochaber, obtained from the House of Argyll a portion of the lands of Menstry.

Thomas Alexander of Menstry had a son, Andrew Alexander, who in 1526 had the life rent of the lands. He married Katherine Graham and had:

- I. Alexander Alexander.
- II. Andrew Alexander.

Alexander Alexander married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Douglas of Lochleven, and had:

- I. Andrew Alexander of Menstry.
- II. William Alexander.

Andrew Alexander had two sons:

- I. Alexander Alexander, married Elizabeth Forbes, by whom he had:
 1. William Alexander, who had a son, William Alexander.
 2. James Alexander.
 3. John Alexander, Portioner of Pitgogar, in Perthshire, who married Margaret Dempster.

II. John Alexander of Tinderton, who seems to have married Margaret Sinclair and had:

1. Alexander Alexander.
2. David Alexander, Ward of Muthill.
3. Patrick Alexander.

David Alexander had two sons:

- I. William Alexander.
- II. James Alexander, who was in the Revolution of 1713 and migrated to New Jersey, where he was one of the first Surveyors General of the Colony, and was one of the first to settle in New Jersey. He married Maria Sprout, daughter of Samuel Sprout and daughter of John Sprout of Winton, Gateway, Scotland, a man of prominence in the Colony. John descended from John Alexander, the great-great-grandson of the first Andrew; therefore the deduction of the Alexanders of America seems to be correct.

Now according to The Scots Peerage the line of the Alexanders would be as follows:

Thomas Alexander of Menstrie 1705 had: Andrew Alexander 1526 who married Catharine Graham and had:

- I. Alexander Alexander, married second, Elizabeth Forbes.
- II. Andrew Alexander, the Presbyterian.
- III. William Alexander.

Alexander Alexander and Elizabeth Forbes had:

- I. Andrew Alexander.
- II. William Alexander, married Elizabeth Coutts and had: I. Alexander, first Earl of Stirling, who had: I. William, II. Anthony, III. Henry. William had: I. William, grandson of Earl of Stirling, who succeeded as second Earl. The line becoming extinct, Henry, the third son, became third Earl, who was succeeded by his son Henry, fourth Earl, succeeded by his son Henry, fifth Earl. The title becoming extinct, fell into abeyance, and was claimed by William Alexander of America.

Descent of Family of McDonalds.

Gottfried, surnamed Gottfried of Gowan, King of Man, son of Harold the Black, of Royal family of Norway, King of Man, had: Olave the Red, son of Gottfried the Black, whose daughter was Ragnhildis or Ragnel or Eirika, 1140. She married Smerdal, Prince or Lord of Aradla, and had:

Reginald, who married Fionia, sister of Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray, or as the Scots Peerage says, "Or may have married a daughter of Ranulph, son of David, ancestor of the famous Earl."

Reginald had: Donald De Isla, ancestor of the McDonalds, who married a daughter of Walter the High Steward, and had, among others: "Alexander McDonald, ancestor of the McAllisters of Loup, and of Alexander of Menstrie, Earl of Stirling."

Stephanus Bayard, son of Samuel Bayard and Margarita Van Cortlandt, married March 12, 1723, Alida Vetch, daughter of Col. Samuel Vetch and Margaret Livingston, and had:

- I. Samuel Bayard.
- II. Nicholas Bayard.
- III. William Bayard, baptized June 15, 1729.

Note.—Douglas' Peerage gives a much fairer account of case of General William Alexander, than does a more full account of his line.

There are also errors in the date of the death of General Bayard, page 281, where the dates of birth and death are given. Colonel William Bayard was loyal to the Crown. He died in 1804.

IV. Stephen Bayard.

V. Stephanus Bayard.

VI. Nicholas Bayard.

VII. Robert Bayard, married Rebecca Altherpe.

VIII. Margaret Bayard.

Colonel William Bayard 1721-1804 married Elizabeth Cornell and had:

I. Catharine Bayard, married Duncan P. Campbell.

II. Susan Bayard, married Benjamin Woolsey Pickers.

III. William Bayard, married Catharine Hagan, ind.

IV. Maria Bayard, married Duncan P. Campbell.

V. Justine Bayard, married Joseph Blumweil.

VI. Robert Bayard, married Elizabeth McEvers.

VII. Harriet Elizabeth Bayard, married General Stephen Van Rensselaer, eldest son of Stephen Van Rensselaer, the last Patron, and Margaret Schuyler.

ST. CLAIR.

This ancient and noble family is so well known in history that it would be useless to go into a long account of the "Lionel Line of High St. Clair." The genealogy of Major General Arthur St. Clair is also so well known that we refrain from giving further than that distinguished General, who rendered such valuable aid to the struggling Colonies.

General Arthur St. Clair married May 14, 1760, in Trinity Church, Boston, Phoebe Bowdoin Bayard, the daughter of Balthazar Bayard, probably son of Jacobus Bayard, and de la Ronde de Kay, and had the following issue:

I. John Murray St. Clair.

II. David St. Clair.

III. Arthur St. Clair.

IV. Elizabeth St. Clair.

V. Louise St. Clair, married Colonel Samuel Robb.

VI. Jane St. Clair.

VII. Margaret St. Clair.

General Stephen Van Rensselaer, the Patron, married Sarah Cornelia Peterson, daughter of Governor William Paterson of New Jersey. She was the niece of Col. and Mrs. Bayard. The Patron's eldest son, William, married Harriet Elizabeth, daughter of William Bivard of New York City.

Samuel Van Rensselaer, the second son of the Patron, was a wealthy merchant, and died in 1794, leaving a large estate to his children. He was born April 4, 1744, and died August 1, 1794.

Born, Rosslyn Castle, Edinburgh, Scotland, 1714. Came to America 1738. Died Aug. 31, 1818.

As we are not going further in the genealogy of the St. Clairs nor the descendants we will therefore carry on the line only of one descendant. Louise St. Clair married Col. Samuel Robb and had, among others, Margaret Balfour Robb, who married William Todd Baldrick and had: George Washington Baldrick, who married Emily Arnold and had: Mary St. Clair Baldrick, who married Charles Henry Blackburn.

Pierre Bowdoin¹ married Elizabeth ——— and had four children, I. James Bowdoin, married Sarah Campbell, July 13, 1703. She died Dec. 21, 1713. He died Sept. 8, 1747, at the age of 71. Their daughter Mary² married, Feb. 12, 1729, Balthazer Bayard, perhaps son of Jacobus, son of Balthazer Bayard, and had:

- I. Mary Bayard.
- II. James Bayard.
- III. William Bayard, born about 1737.
- IV. Mehitable Bayard.
- V. Phoebe Bayard, married General Arthur St. Clair.
- VI. Sarah Bayard, married John Elliott.

The following data has been kindly sent me by Thomas F. Bayard, Esq. Wilmington, Delaware:

- (1) Thomas Francis Bayard, son of Thomas Francis Bayard and Louisa Sewell Lee.
- (2) Thomas Francis Bayard, son of James Asheton Bayard and Anne Francis.
- (3) James Asheton Bayard, son of James Asheton Bayard and Anne Bassett.
- (4) James Asheton Bayard, son of James Asheton Bayard and Ann Hedge.
- (5) James Asheton Bayard, son of James Bayard and Mary Asheton.
- (6) James Bayard, son of Samuel Bayard and Susannah Boudelle.
- (7) Samuel Bayard, son of Petrus Bayard and Blin Dina Kierstadt.
- (8) Petrus Bayard, son of Samuel Bayard and Anna Maria Stayvesant.
- (9) Samuel Bayard, son of Lazare Bayard and Judith Beyens.
- (10) Lazare Bayard, son of Nicolas Bayard and ——— [Blandina Condé].

The J. A. B. (4) was the twin brother of Col. John Bubenheim Bayard.

¹ Pierre Bowdoin married Mary Sellers Bayard, whom we can not locate in our records. She was born in 1703 and died in 1786 in New York.

² We only carry on the line of first marriage in this case.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF COL. JOHN BAYARD.

Colonel John Bubbenhaim Bayard (he dropped the name Bubbenhaim) was born in the Great House, Bohemia Manor, Cecil Co., Maryland, on August 11, 1733, and died in New Brunswick, N. J., on January 7, 1807. He was one of the most distinguished members of this ancient family, holding many positions of importance.

He signed the non-importation agreement Oct. 25, 1765; was delegate to Provincial Convention, July 15, 1774; on Committee of Safety and Council of Safety. He had also quite a military career and was a gallant officer. In 1775 he was a Major of the Second Battalion and then Colonel of Associators and served during a period of two years. He was in the battle of Princeton and was personally thanked by General Washington for services rendered. He was also in the battles of Germantown, Brandywine and Valley Forge. He appears to have served in a military capacity and as a member of the State Board of War until after Dec. 4, 1777.

He had a seat on the Supreme Executive Council, Oct. 31, 1781; was Judge of High Court of Appeals, March 15, 1783; member of Continental Congress 1785; removed from Philadelphia, Pa. to New Brunswick, N. J., and became Mayor of that town in 1799, and Judge of Court of Common Pleas. We thus see what a distinguished gentleman he was: Patriot, soldier, and statesman.

Supporters: Two hands.

Motto: In time.

This ancient, noble baronial family of knightly lineage and who achieved later on the title of Baronet, was founded in Georgia by Sir Patrick Houston, the fifth Baronet, who filled many positions of importance.

Many are the families descended from this noble line and we find such well known names as Johnston, McIntosh, Anderson, Wernan, Kellook, Woodruff, Child, Chalmers and others who descended from this noble ancient Fowl and noble lineage through Sir Patrick Houston, the first Baronet, who married a daughter of Sir John H. Bland, first Lord Bargany, who married a daughter of the Marquis of Douglas, descended from Robert III, of Scotland.

George Houston, Sir, of the State of Georgia, Baronet, History of Georgia, Vol. 1, Sec. 1.

In the reign of Malcolm IV. of Scotland, 1153-65, the grant of a Barony was made to Hugo De Padvinan, and the name of the Baron was changed to Hugh's-town: afterward, when surnames came in vogue, the name was eventually corrupted to Houstoun. Several descendants of this Hugo received Knighthood, and in 1668 the representative of the family was created a Baronet by King Charles II. of England. When General Oglethorpe went to Georgia, the fifth Baronet, Sir Patrick Houstoun, accompanied him, and founded this ancient and illustrious family of Georgia, who helped lay the foundations of the commonwealth. We find at an early day Dr. William Houstoun, a naturalist¹, being sent by Sir Hans Sloan to gather rare exotics in the West Indies. Sir Patrick Houstoun, member of His Majesty's Council and President of the same, and Registrar General. His sons, Sir Patrick Houstoun and Sir George Houstoun, member of the Council of Safety, member of Provincial Congress, and a very prominent patriot, 1775. John Houstoun, Delegate to Continental Congress, member of first Executive Council, Governor of Georgia, Mayor of Savannah, Agent of Georgia in boundary disputes, Trustee of State College, Chief Justice of Georgia, &c.² William Houstoun, Trustee State College, Agent of Georgia in settlement of boundary disputes, Delegate to Federal Convention for Adoption of Constitution. Dr. James Houstoun³, Surgeon in Continental line of Georgia Brigade during the Revolution. In later days, Edward Houstoun, a man of prominence, and his sons, Dr. J. P. S. Sir Patrick Houston of that ilk (died 1450), married Annes Campbell or Agnes Campbell (died same year), and had Sir John Houston, Knight (died 1466), who married Isabella Colquhoun and had Sir Peter Houston, Knight (who was at the battle of Flodden, died 1513). He married Helen, the heiress of the ancient family of Schaw of Satchy, and had a son, Sir Patrick Houston, who was knighted by James V. He married Janet Cunningham and was killed in 1528, leaving a son, Sir John Houston, who received a charter of Barones of Houston 1528 and died in 1542, having married the daughter of Hopepringle of Torsoe. His son, Sir Patrick Houston, was created a Knight by King James VI. and died 1605, leaving by his wife Janet, daughter of Gabriel Cunningham of Craighurst, a Cadet branch of the Earls of Cairn, besides a number of daughters, four sons as follows:

I. John Houston, died 1605, married Margaret, daughter of Sir James Sterling of Keir.

II. Patrick Houston of Colt.

III. Peter Houston of Wester South Bar.

IV. James Houston of Commedale.

John Houston and Margaret Sterling had: Sir Lucovic Houston, Knight (died 1616), who married Margaret, daughter of Patrick Maxwell of Newmarch and had (besides seven daughters):

I. Patrick Houston, died 1602.

II. George Houston, first of Johnstone.

Patrick Houston had: Patrick Houston created a Baronet 1608 by Charles II. died 1696. Sir Patrick Houston married Ann, died 1676, daughter of Sir John Hamilton of Carriden, first Lord Banzany, by Margaret or Jean, daughter of William Douglas, first Marquis of Douglas and eleventh Earl of Angus, and his wife, Honorable Mary Hamilton, daughter of Claude, Lord Paisley.

The first Marquis of Douglas was son of William Douglas, tenth Earl of Angus, and Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Olyphant, the son of Sir William Douglas, Knight, of Glenhervie, ninth Earl of Angus.

Sir John Houston, second Baronet, a very prominent man in Renfrew, died 1717, and Lady Ann Drummond died; Sir John Houston, third Baronet, who married Lady Mary Slave and had: Sir John Houston, fourth Baronet, who married Lady Ann Cadogan, daughter of Lord Cadogan, by whom he had no issue, and hence the succession devolved upon Sir Patrick Houston, second son of Sir J. Baronet, who became fifth Baronet. He removed to Georgia in 1733, and there founded the family of Houston, died 1782.

Sir Patrick Houston, the founder of the family in Georgia, second son of Sir Patrick Houston, first Baronet, by Lady Ann Hamilton, daughter of John, Lord Bargaun, succeeded to the title of fifth Baronet on the failure of the males of the elder line. He went to Georgia in 1735 and married in 1738 Priscilla Dunbar, by whom he had the following six children:

I. Patrick Houston, sixth Baronet, died unmarried, in Bath, England.

II. Sir George Houston, seventh Baronet, succeeded his brother and married Ann M. Moobie, daughter of Thomas Moobie of the family of Cocking, Deputy Secretary of the Province, who had married Jane McKenney, and had:

1. George Houston, 1764.

2. Patrick Houston, born 1777; married 1801, Eliza Fuller McQueen.

3. Robert J. M. Houston, married Sarah McQueen.

4. Jenn Houston, married Wednesday, March 30, 1790, George Woodruff.

There are 11 Houston families in the Southern States. Mr. de Beck has traced the Houston family to Scotland, and has shown that the Houston family of Scotland is the same as the Houston family of England.

Note:—In the number of sons in the family of Sir John Houston, it is clearly seen that the Houstons (or Hew-sons) of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, North Carolina and Texas may all have descended from this family.

General Patrick Houstoun,¹ eldest son of Edward Houstoun and Claudia Bond, was a most estimable gentleman and prominent man. Adjutant General of Florida, President of State Senate, and held numerous positions of honor and trust in Florida. He was born in Savannah, and died Monday, May 6, 1901, aged 63 years, in Tallahassee, Fla., his funeral being attended by Confederate Veterans and the State Military. The greatest honor was shown this eminent man, and all united in tribute to a worthy son of a distinguished family, who in himself kept up the prestige of the name. He married Martha Bradford, daughter of Col. John Bradford, and had four children:

1. Edward Augustus Houstoun, born 1866, married 1893, Nannie L. King, daughter of Judge Ziba King.

2. Martha Branch Houstoun, born 1869, married 1893, Perry G. Wall.

3. James Prater Screven Houstoun, born 1875, married 1898, Annie Collins, daughter of State Treasurer C. B. Collins.

4. Claudia Bond Houstoun, born 1873, married 1896, Geo. P. Rainey, Jr., son of Judge Geo. P. Rainey and Miss Lamar, daughter of Col. Thompson B. Lamar, Colonel of the 5th Florida Regiment, C. S. A., and a brother of Hon. Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi, late of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Mrs. Patrick Houstoun was Miss Martha Bradford, great-granddaughter of Col. John Bradford, of the Revolutionary War, whose mother was a lineal descendant of Oliver Cromwell. Mrs. Houstoun's mother was a daughter of Gov. John Branch, of North Carolina.

Robert James M. Houstoun, one of the sons of Sir George Houstoun, married Sarah McQueen, sister of Eliza McQueen, who married Patrick Houstoun, brother of Robert, as per above. Robert J. Houstoun and Sarah McQueen had:

1. Sarah Ann Houstoun, married John W. Anderson, son of John W. Anderson and Elizabeth Wilson, son of Capt. John Anderson, of the Revolutionary War. Elizabeth Clifford Wayne was daughter of Richard Wayne and Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Clifford.

Capt. John W. Anderson and Sarah Ann Houston had:

I. Robert Houston Anderson (General, C. S. A.), married Sarah Eliza.

II. George W. Anderson (Maj., C. S. A.), married Katharine H. Berrien.

III. John W. Anderson (Captain, C. S. A.), married Jessie C. Wright.

IV. Clarence G. Anderson, married Florida Lamar.

V. Clifford W. Anderson (Col., 1st Regiment), married first, Clifford N. West; second, Hannah T. Walker.

VI. Eliza Clara Anderson, married Hon. Walter T. Chisholm, an eminent lawyer and Judge, President of Plant System.

And thus do we see this family united to the Berriens, Wrights, of South Carolina, Lamars, Wests, Walkers and Houstons, and connected with the eminent family of Wayne and Anderson, connected to so many of the gentry of Georgia, the Jones, Wallaces, Savages, Owens, &c.

III. John Houston, Governor of Georgia, married Hannah, daughter of Hon. Jonathan Bryan. No issue.

IV. James Houston, Surgeon in Continental Army, married 1773, Eliza Oakes, and had issue:

1. Mr. Susan Houston, Colonel U. S. A.

2. James Edward Houston.

3. Dr. James Edmund Houston, married Mary Ann Williamson.

4. Elizabeth Houston married Charles S. Alding.

5. John Houston.

V. William Houston was a very influential man and was elected as a delegate from Georgia to the Convention in New York to assist in the framing of the Constitution of the United States. He married in New York, Maria Bayard, daughter of Nicholas Bayard and Catherine Livingston, and had issue:

1. John Houston, a member of Congress, U. S. A., Lieutenant Church, First Regt.

NOTE.—Nos. III, IV, V and VI were children of Sir Patrick Houston. See I and II on page 29.

2. Maria Clinch Houston, married John Egley Madison, U. S. A.

VI. Ann Priscilla Houston, married George McIntosh, fourth son of John Muir McIntosh, the Highland Chief, who went to Georgia from Inverness with 150 Highlanders. From this marriage descended branches of the families of Clinch, Sadler, Loud, Shanklin, Ellairs of South Carolina, Hayward and others.

MOODIE¹

Thomas Moodie of Lassodie, Fife-shire, jure uxoris, second son of William Moodie, third of Muir, born probably 1694 and is mentioned in will of his elder brother William Moodie of Muir, 11 Nov. 1777, married before Nov. 21, 1679, Marion, second daughter and co-heiress of John Muir, Parson of Lassodie and Windessburgh, Marjorie, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Neil Devan, Esq. of Lassodie, and by her who was baptized 27 Nov., 1642, he had, with probably other issue:

I. John Moodie, first of Cucklaw.

II. James Moodie, writer in Edinburgh, living Jan. 1718. He was probably father of Thomas Moodie, Merchant in North Berwick, who is son of the deceased James Moodie, writer in Edinburgh, was served heir to George Aitkins, writer in Edinburgh, in a dwelling house in that town 27 October, 1748. This Thomas Moodie married Jean McKenzie and had, among others: Ann Moodie, baptized there 10 June 1718. William Moodie of Muir married Isabel Paton. This was an old family of the gentry of Scotland and dated away back.

JOHNSTON.

This old Georgia family is descended from Dr. James Johnston, born 1646, who entered the Royal Navy, and married, in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1722, Jean Nicolson, who has her heard of the famous Johnstons of the border, so well known in history, and so brave? Well may George be proud of her Johnstons, for James Johnston was the publisher of the Georgia Gazette, in which many facts of history would have been forever lost, and it is to Dr. Lewis Johnston, of Edinburgh, renowned medicine with him, and more in Georgia, the latter married her, this second marriage, his daughter, Elizabeth Johnston, first wife of Johnston was member of His Majesty's Privy Council, and served with the Crown during the Revolution, sent to Jamaica, and lived there.

Dr. James Johnston, of the Royal Navy, and Jean Nicolson, had:

I. Dr. Lewis Johnston, born 1703.

MCINTOSH OF HOLME,

Shaw d. 1179, had Shaw living 1219 who had William, who had Shaw, who married Helen, daughter of Thane of Calder, and had Ferquhard, who married Mora, daughter of Angus of Isla, and had Angus who married Eva, a daughter of the Chief of Clan Chattan, and had William McIntosh, who married Margaret, daughter of Mauri McLeod of the Lewis, and had Malcolm Beg McIntosh, who married Mora, daughter of McDonald first of Moldart, and had Alen third son, who married Jane, daughter of Hugh, third Lord Fraser of Lovat, and had William Mor, who had Donald McIntosh, who married Catherine, daughter of Hugh Rose, ninth Baron of Kilravoch, widow of John Fraser of Farnham, and had William McIntosh, ancestor of McIntosh of Holme, whose son was Alexander of Holme.

*Gilbert de Fraser had among others a third son, who beside others had Bernard Fraser, who married Mary Osilvie, daughter of Gilchrist, Thane of Angus, by his wife Marjory, daughter of Prince Henry, son of the King and sister of King William the Lion and Malcolm, and had Sir Gilbert Fraser of Oliver Castle, whose younger son, Sir Andrew Fraser, married Beatrix and had an elder son, Simon Fraser, who married Margaret, daughter of Earl of Orkney, by a daughter of Graham of Lovat, and had a second son, Hugh Fraser, Lord Lovat, who married Isabella, daughter of Sir David Wemyss of Wemyss, and had Hugh Fraser, first Lord, who married the daughter, an heiress, of William Fenton of Beaufort, and had among others, Hugh Fraser, second Lord, who married Lady Janet, daughter of Thomas Dunbar, Earl of Moray, and had Hugh Fraser, third Lord, who married Violetta Lyon, daughter of Lord Glamis.

CUNNINGHAM OF CRAIGENDS.

This ancient and noble family, a cadet line of Cunningham, Earl of Glencairn, descends from Sir Robert Cunningham, who married Anne, daughter of Sir John Montgomery of Arrossan, who married Agnes of the Isles; son of Sir John Montgomery by a daughter, daughter and heiress of Sir Hugh Eglinton by Egidia Stewart, half sister of Robert II. and widow of Sir James Lindsay of Crawford.

Sir Robert Cunningham and Anne Montgomery had: Alexander Cunningham, created a Lord of Parliament as Lord Kilmaurs, and later first Earl of Glencairn, who married a daughter of Sir Adam Hepburn of Hailes, second Lord Hailes, who married Elyne or Helen Home, daughter of Sir Adam Home of Hailes, who married Martha, daughter of John, son of Sir Robert Lawder of the Dives, a House of Hailes.

¹History of Family of Lawder.

*It is here proper to state that the accounts of descent of the later Frasers vary so much as between Scott's Peerage and others that it becomes difficult to state the exact lineage of the lines as given between McKenzie and Scott's Peerage.

Sir Robert Lawler of the Bass was son of Sir Alan Lawder who married Alicia Campbell, daughter of Sir Colin Campbell of Lochewe, grandson of Sir Colin, son of Sir Neil Campbell by Mary Bruce, sister of King Robert Bruce and daughter of Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick, of Royal lineage, by Donald, Earl of Mar and Iselen, daughter of Lewellin, Prince of North Wales.

Sir Alexander Home, first Lord Home, 1428, was son of Alexander Home of Home and Laurence by John Hay, daughter of Sir William Hay of Locherworth.

It has been shown that the Earl of Glencairn married Margaret, daughter of Sir Adam Hepburn, second Lord Hailes. He was the son of Sir Patrick Hepburn, first Lord Hailes, who married twice; his second wife at time of his death was Elaine Wallace. Sir Patrick was son of Sir Adam Hepburn of Hailes, son of Patrick Hepburn by a daughter of the family of Vaux or de Valibus of Dirlston; son of Sir Patrick Hepburn and Agnes. (See Scott's Peerage for these lines.)

Having shown the illustrious descent of Cunningham of Glencairn, we will now proceed to state the descent of the Craighends lines.

Alexander Cunningham, first Earl of Glencairn,¹ married as has been stated a daughter of Sir Adam Hepburn, second Lord Hailes. By this marriage, besides others, there was:

I. William Cunningham of Craighends, who married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Walter Stewart of Ardsuiry, by whom there was:

1. William Cunningham, who married Anne, daughter of Sir John Campbell of Loudoun and Anne Gabriel Cunningham slain at battle of Pinkie, 1547, who married Edith Livingston, daughter of William Livingston by Janet, daughter of Robert Bruce of Ardsuiry; son of William Livingston, descended in direct line from Sir John Livingston of Caithness who fell at the battle of Harwick, 1402 by his second marriage, to Agnes, daughter of Sir James Dunbar of Dunbar, who married Agnes Dunbar, daughter of Sir James Dundee, daughter of Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray, and Isobel Stewart; son of Sir Thomas Randolph and Lady Isobel Dunbar, daughter of Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick.

Sir Patrick, first Lord Hailes, son Alexander of Whitsome.

² History of the Salter of Renfrew, by George Crawford.

³ Scott's Peerage.

⁵ Sir Colin Campbell married Marion or Margaret, daughter of John, son of Douglas, son of Sir Neil by the Princess Mary Bruce.

Before proceeding with the further pedigree of Dunbar, it is of interest to note that two families in this work descend from the Livingstons of Callendar: the Livingstons of New York and the Houstons of Georgia.

Sir Andrew de Livingston, Sheriff of Lincolshire 1470, had a grandson, Sir William de Livingston, who married Christian, daughter of Sir Patrick Callendar, and had, Sir John de Livingston, who fought the battle of Humbleton Hill, 1402. He married first, a daughter of Montfitchet House, from whom the Livingstons of Livingston Manor, New York, descend.

Sir John de Livingston married second, Agnes Douglas, daughter of Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith by Anne Dunbar, and this branch was styled Livingstons of Kilsyth when they moved in France, as has been shown, descends to Elizabeth Livingston, daughter of William Livingston and Janet Bruce, carries us to the marriage of Gabriel Cunningham of Craigends, who married Elizabeth Livingston and had:

I. Janet Cunningham who married Sir Patrick Houseman of that ilk, and had: I. Sir John Houston who married Mary, daughter of Sir James Sterling of Abernethy, and had: Sir Ludovick Houston who married Mary, daughter of Matthew of Newburgh, and had: Patrick (died 1472), who had: Sir Patrick Houston, first Baronet, who married Ann, daughter of Sir John Hamilton, Lord Bargany, by a daughter of William Douglas, first Marquis of Douglas, and had, among others, a second son, Sir Patrick Houston, who went to Georgia and by failure of heirs male of sister Anne became the fifth Baronet.

To proceed further with the Douglas descent, would say that Sir James Douglas was the grandfather of the Lords of Morton. He has been stated, married Agnes Dunbar, daughter of Sir Patrick Dunbar and Isabella, a daughter of Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray, 1412, and Isabel Stewart: son of Sir Thomas Randolph by Lady Isabel Bruce, daughter of Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick, of Royal lineage.

Sir Patrick Dunbar was a son of Sir Alexander, son of Patrick Dunbar, seventh Earl of Dunbar and March; son of Patrick Dunbar, sixth Earl and Euphemia, daughter of Walter, first High Steward of Scotland. Patrick, sixth Earl, was a son of Patrick, fifth Earl, by Anne, daughter of King William I., the Lion; and Patrick, fifth Earl, was the son of Patrick, fourth Earl, and Gospatrick, Earl of Dunbar and March, son of Malcolm, first King of Scotland by Edith or Alagna, daughter of Godfrey, Earl of Northumberland, by his wife Elgiva, daughter of Athel II., King of England; and Malcolm was the son of Crinan the Thane, Seneschal of the Isles 1070, by Bethoc or Beatrix, daughter of Malcolm II., King of Scotland.

Thus, the pedigree of the Houston family is traced to the House of Stuart, and the House of Douglas, and the House of Dunbar.

NOTE.—This entire article is based largely on The Scots Peerage, by Sir James Balfour Paul.

STERLING OF KEIR.

Lukes of Strevelyn had: Sir William, of Falk, 1476, who married first, Margaret Cunningham and had: Sir William, 1471-1504, who married (as his second wife) before 1475, Margaret, daughter of James Chrichton, of Ruthvendenny, and had: Sir John 1476, who married Margaret Forrester, daughter of Sir Walter Forrester of Bervie, and had: Sir James Sterling, 1533-1588, who married, as his second wife, Jane Chisholm of that ancient line and had: Margaret Sterling who married Sir John Houston of that ilk.¹ They had a daughter of Houston 1600.

Royal Lineage of McIntosh of McIntosh and Borlum.

Shaw, 1179, stated to be descended from McDuff Thane of Fife, married Egidia Montgomery, daughter of Hugh Montgomery, Chief of his name, and had: Shaw 1219, married Mary Sandlands and had a second son, William McIntosh, who married Beatrice Larnach of Fife and had: Shaw, who married a daughter of Thane of Dunbar and had: Humphrey McIntosh, who married Isara, daughter of Angus of Banels O, McDonald of the Isles, and had: Angus or Eneas McIntosh, who married Eva, only daughter of Gilpatrick Macdonald Vis Gilchristian, Chief of Don Chastan, and had: William McIntosh who married second, Margaret McLeod, daughter of Roderick Mac McLeod of Lewis by Margaret, daughter of John McDonald, Lord of the Isles, and had: Malcolm De, McIntosh, who married Mora McRanald, daughter of Ranald McRanald, first of Morar, and had, among others: 1. Lachlan McIntosh of McIntosh, and also a third son, Allan McIntosh of Holme, whose descendant, John McIntosh of Holme, went to Georgia.

Lachlan McIntosh of McIntosh married Catherine, daughter of Sir Duncan Grant, Chief of the Grants and first of Faehnie, and had: Lachlan Beg McIntosh who married Jean or Janet Gordon, daughter of Sir Alexander Gordon of Lochinvale, who married Jean Kennedy, daughter of John, second Lord Kennedy, by Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Gordon, Earl of Huntly, and Elizabeth, daughter of William, Lord Chrichton.

John, second Lord Kennedy, was son of Robert, first Lord Kennedy, by Katharine, daughter of Herbert Maxwell, first Lord Maxwell, and Robert, first Lord Kennedy, was son of James Kennedy by the Princess Mary, daughter of Robert III, son of Sir Gilbert Kennedy by Agnes Maxwell, daughter of Sir John Maxwell of Pollock by his wife Isabel Lindsay, daughter of Sir John Lindsay and Elizabeth, sister of Robert II. Thus we see that the McIntoshs are of several lines of royal descent.

Lachlan McIntosh and Jean Gordon had: William McIntosh, who married Margaret daughter of Alexander Ogilvie of Cardross, first Lord, first Baron, and had: Lachlan Mac McIntosh, who married James McKenzie, daughter of Kenneth MacKenzie, first Lord, and had: Margaret Stewart, daughter of John Stewart, first Lord, and had: Elizabeth, daughter of Angus Gordon, first Lord, and had: John Stewart, second Earl of Atholl, who was son of John Gordon, first Baron by Lady Stewart St Clair, daughter of William St Clair, third Earl of Atholl; and John Stewart first Earl of Atholl, was son of Sir James Stewart, the Black Knight of Lorn, by Joanna, widow of King James I. and daughter of John, Earl of Somerset, son of John, Duke of Lancaster, son of Edward III. of England. Thus again we see the McIntosh of Royal lineage.

Lachlan Mor McIntosh and Ainae McKenzie had: William McIntosh, who married 1594, Elizabeth Innes, daughter of Robert Innes of Innermarkie, of Royal descent, and had: Lachlan McIntosh, who married 1635, Helen Gordon and had: William McIntosh, who married Mary, daughter of William Baillie VII. of Dunain, and Elizabeth Forbes, son of Alexander Baillie and Catherine Munro of Munro; son of William Baillie and Catherine Munro of Foulds, daughter of Robert More Munro by Margaret Ogilvie, daughter of James Ogilvie of Girdleth, and Janet, daughter of Sir Alexander Gordon of Lochmivar by Jean Kennedy, daughter of John, second Lord Kennedy; son of Gilbert, first Lord; son of James Kennedy by Princess Mary, daughter of King Robert III. Thus through the Baillies of Dunain and the Munros do the McIntoshes again descend from the Royal line of Scotland.

William McIntosh and Mary Baillie had: Lachlan McIntosh of Knocknagael, who married Mary Lockhart, daughter of John Lockhart, Baillie of Inverness, and besides others had: John More McIntosh who went to Georgia and lived and died there, leaving issue. (See "Baillie of Dunain.")

John McIntosh, third son, styled "of Lynavale," had: Donald, Lachlan, and John McIntosh who also went to Georgia and had: William and Angus McIntosh, and possibly others.

MCINTOSH OF HOLME.

Allan McIntosh, third son of Malcolm Bag McIntosh and his wife, Mora McDonald, married Janet Fraser, daughter of Hugh, third Lord Fraser; son of Hugh Fraser who married Janet, daughter of Thomas Dunbar, Earl of Moray, descended from the Duncbars, Earls of Dunbar and March, of Royal lineage, as Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray, whose daughter Isabella married Sir Patrick Dunbar, descended from Patrick, fifth Earl, by Ada, daughter of King William I., "The Lion."

Allan McIntosh and Janet Fraser had: William Mor McIntosh, who had Donald McIntosh who married Katherine Rose and had: William McIntosh, who had: Alexander McIntosh of Holme who had Angus McIntosh of Holme 1671, married Elizabeth Baillie and whose apparent descendant, John McIntosh of Holme, 1724, married Janet Baillie. In Georgia we find John McIntosh of Holme in 1733 as one of signers of Creek Treaty as a witness.

The McIntoshes of Holme have several other lines of Royal lineage, as follows:

John McI. had, first Lord of the Isles, married Ainae, heiress of the McKenzies, and had: John McIntosh, who married Elizabeth, daughter of John Somerset who married a daughter of Walter Stewart, brother of King Robert ¹Scott's Peerage thinks the marriage doubtful, but other authorities give it. Both Anderson, page 71, and McKenzie, p. 1363, in the Frasers, give Janet as having married Allan McIntosh.

BOLTON

BOLTON OF BOLTON.

This ancient family, according to Dugdale, descended from the Saxon Earls of Mercia, who descended from the Saxon Kings. We find the Boltons settled at the Brookhouse, Blackburn, Lancashire, where, says Fuller, the family had continued in good repute.

The following is the direct line of Bolton¹, the whole having been published by Rev. Robert, Dr H. Carrington and Reginald Bolton, Esq. See also Habersham Book.

Robert Bolton, 1487, married Ann Rushton, and had William Bolton, of Little Bolton, 1550, and of Blackburn, 1623; died, 1553. His son Adam Bolton, 1530, had Richard Bolton, of Brookhouse and of Ramsgrove Lanes, 1537, and Adam Bolton, of Brookhouse, born 1547, died 1593; married Elizabeth, died 1599, had Gyles Bolton of Bro House, in 1625; died 1642, and had John Bolton, born 1610, Parish Clerk at Blackburn; died 1678, and had John Bolton, Esq., of Wales, Yorkshire, born at Brookhouse, Blackburn; baptized at St. Mary's Church, March 6, 1658; died about 1683-4; married Ann, who died about 1694, and had Robert Bolton, Esq., born Wales, Yorkshire July 26, 1683; emigrated 1713; buried at Philadelphia, Penn., June 25, 1742; married Ann, widow of Robert Clay, of Sheffield, Yorkshire, and had William Bolton, Esq., of Kent's Church, Dear-ware, and had:

I. Robert Bolton, who moved to Savannah, Ga., about 1740; born January 1, 1722; died May 4, 1789; married Susannah Mauve, born 1729; died 1762; and had, besides others, Anne Bolton, born May 2, 1752; died April 27, 1818; married Nathaniel Adams, of South Carolina. Ancestor of branches of families of Adams, Habersham, Colquitt, Lewis, Newell, Siler, Footman, King, Bulloch, &c. &c.

II. John Bolton, married Eleanor Dougherty.

III. Ann Bolton, married, first, Wood; second, John Mercer.

IV. Mary Bolton, born April 5, 1724; married, December 26, 1740 (died January 4, 1763), Hon. James Habersham, Governor of Georgia, 1771; born Beverly, Yorkshire, 1715; went to Georgia, 1738; died 1775; son of James Habersham, of Beverly, Yorkshire, England, who married 1712, Elizabeth Sisson.

V. Rebecca Bolton, d. s. p.

According to Dugdale and Bolton, &c., the Boltons descend from the Saxon Kings, through the Earls of Mercia, were Lords of Bolton and prominent citizens and Governors of Blackburn School. In America, they were citizens of prominence and connected to many of the best people of the North and South, and were early settlers in Pennsylvania and Georgia; in the latter State prominent citizens, &c.

ASSHETON

This ancient and prominent family had as its ancestor, Orme Fitz Edward, who married Emma, daughter of Albert de Cresley, Baron of Manchester, and had:

I. Sir Thomas.

II. Roger Fitz Orme, who had: 1. Sir Thomas, Lord of Assheton, whose son, Sir John Assheton, living 1335, was a member of Parliament 1328. He married Muriel, daughter of Sir John Byron and widow of Sir Edward Talbot. Besides Gilbert he had an elder son, Sir Robert Assheton, Vice Chamberlain to King Edward III. Sir Robert Assheton, by his wife, Elizabeth and Thomas Assheton, who married the daughter of Sir John Eudney (Foster says Eumley), and had: Sir John Assheton, Knight of the Shire of Lancaster, 1385, who married Margaret, daughter of Perkyn de Legh of Lyme, and had: Sir John de Assheton who was drowned at Norham. He married a daughter of Sir Robert Standish of Sandish. There is no record to show who this Sir Robert of Standish was the son of, but in taking a survey of the line we find that in 1384 there was a Robert de Standish, Sheriff of the same County, whose daughter in point of time must have been the one who married Sir John de Assheton. The line of Standish as we find it would then be as follows: Thurston de Standish, 1221, married Marjorie, daughter and co-heiress of Robert de Hutton, and had: Ralph de Standish who had: Jordon de Standish, 1271, married Margaret, grandfather of John de Standish, Lord of Sandish 1332, who had:

- I. William de Standish.
- II. Henry de Standish.
- III. Edward de Standish.
- IV. Ralph de Standish.
- V. Robert de Standish.
- VI. John de Standish.

Henry de Standish,¹ the second son, had by his wife Joan issue, from whom descended Ralph de Standish, High Sheriff, who had an elder son Lawrence de Standish, who married in 1393, Lora, daughter of Sir Roger de Pilkington, and had: Sir Alexander de Standish who was living in 1422, whose son, Sir Alexander de Standish, married Constance, daughter of John Gerard Bryn, and had:

1. Ralph de Standish.
2. Lawrence de Standish.
3. Abson de Standish.
4. Robert de Standish.
5. Peter de Standish.

Sir John de Assheton, who was drowned at Norham, had by a daughter of Sir Robert de Standish a son, Sir John de Assheton, Knight of the Bath, Seneschal of Bayeux, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Byron of Clapton, daughter of ¹ History of Commoners, by Burke.

Henry VII. at Basworth, died 1448 and had: Sir Ralph Assheton, second son, first called of Middleton, paid homage to King Henry VI., was Knight Marshal of England, and in 1482 created a Knight Baronet.

He married Margaret, heiress of Middleton, daughter of John Barton of Middleton, and had: Sir Ralph Assheton, his second son, who married Margaret, heiress of Great Lever, daughter of Adam Lever of Great Lever, and had: Ralph Assheton of Great Lever, who married Eleanor Hulton, daughter of Adam Hulton of Hulton Park, of an ancient family, and had among others: Ralph Assheton, who married Margaret Orrell and had: Eleanor Assheton¹, who married William Bolton of Little Bolton and Blackburn, who died in 1558: Son of Robert Boulton of Boulton 1487, who married Ann Rushton, daughter of Nicholas Rushton.

We thus see that the ancient family of Bolton is descended from the distinguished family of Assheton and from the Standishes who are connected to so many ancient lines, and from the Buckleys, Byrons, Hultons and others.

William Bolton and Eleanor Assheton* had: Adam Bolton of Blackburn 1500, whose son, Richard Bolton of Brookhouse 1545, had: Adam Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1593, and had: Gyles Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1644: married Margaret, and had John Bolton, Parish Clerk, born 1613, died 1658, and had: John Bolton of Woles, Yorkshire, born 1638, died 1714, whose wife was Ann, died circa 1714, and had: Robert Bolton, born 1688, died 1742, emigrated to Philadelphia, Pa. 1718: married Ann Curtis, born 1696, married 1720, died 1747: widow of Robert Clay and daughter of Winlock Curtis and Anna Bowen, daughter of Benjamin Bowen and Elizabeth, daughter cousin of Henry Dunster, first President of Harvard College.

¹Bolton Bank, by J. C. and Ferdinand Bolton, which quotes from Harleian MSS., see page 103. Chart by Dr. McLaren McBryde: Stemmata Robertson et Durbin: Foster's Charts.

* Eleanor Assheton may have been the daughter of Ralph Assheton of Great Lever.

²See also the genealogy of the family of the Hultons, in the Harleian MSS., which shows the descent of the Hultons from the Boltons, and many other families descended from the Boltons. This sheet headed of Bolton is intended to show the descent only from Assheton, Byron, etc.

Winlock Curtis was son of John Curtis, a member of Penn's Council. Robert Bolton and Ann Curtis had:

- I. Robert Bolton, went to Georgia 1740; married Susannah Mauve.
- II. John Bolton, married Eleanor Dougherty.
- III. Ann Bolton, married first, Wood; second, John Mercer.
- IV. Mary Bolton, married James Habersham.
- V. Rebecca Bolton, d. s. p.

Adam de Hulton and Alicia de Hulton had, among others: Elena de Hulton who married Ralph Assheton of Great Lever and had a daughter or grand daughter Eleanor Assheton, who married William Bolton of Little Bolton and Blackburn, 1523-5, died 1530, son of Robert Boulton of Boulton 1487, by Ann, daughter of Nicholas Rushton.

Ralph Assheton of Great Lever was son of Sir Ralph Assheton, second son, who was of Great Lever, who married Margaret Lever, heiress of Great Lever, daughter of A. Lm Lever of Great Lever; son of Sir Ralph Assheton of Middleton, second son, by Margaret, daughter of John Barton of Middleton; son of Sir John de Assheton, Knight of the Bath 1429, by Margaret, daughter of Sir John Byren of Clayton by Marjory Booth, daughter of John Booth by a daughter of Sir Henry Trafford of Trafford; son of Sir Thomas Booth by Ellen, daughter of Thomas de Workesley of Workesley; son of John de Booth and Agnes, daughter of Sir Gilbert de Barton; son of Thomas, son of William Booths, living 1275, by Sibill, daughter of Sir Ralph de Bereton; son of Adam de Booths.

John de Hulton, brother of Richard de Hulton, sons of David de Hulton and Agnes Blackstun, married Joan, daughter of Richard de Manchester, and had:

- I. Henry de Hulton, who married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Bowden of Bowden.

- II. Agnes de Hulton, married Adam de Lever of Great Lever.

Henry de Hulton and Agnes Bowden had:

1. John de Hulton, who married Alicia, daughter of Adam or Allan de Radclyffe by Avise, daughter of John de Radclyffe. Adam de Radclyffe was son of Robert de Radclyffe of Radclyffe

Tower; son of Adam de Radclyffe by a daughter of Culwen Vel Curwen of Camerton. son of William de Radclyffe by Cecelia, de Montbegon, Lady of Kirkland.

John de Hulton and Alicia de Radclyffe had: William de Hulton, who married a daughter of Arden of Hawarden and had: John de Hulton of Farnsworth, who married Isabella, daughter of William de Atherton, and had:

1. James de Hulton of Farm, married Elizabeth Radclyffe.
2. Eleanor de Hulton, married Roger de Hulton of Hulton.

James de Hulton of Farm and Elizabeth Radclyffe had: William de Hulton, who married Margaret, daughter of Hugh Tyldesley, and had: John de Hulton, of Farnsworth, who married Elizabeth Pilkington¹ and had:

1. Alicia de Hulton, married Adam de Hulton of Hulton and had: Elena de Hulton, who married Ralph Assheton of Great Lever and had, among others, a daughter or granddaughter Eleanor, who married William Bolton of Little Bolton and Blackburn, son of Robert Boulton of Boulton by Ann, daughter of Nicholas Rushton.

Eleanor Assheton and William Bolton had: Adam Bolton of Blackburn 1539, who had: Richard Bolton of Brookhouse 1545, who had: Adam Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1593, who had: Gyles Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1644, married Margaret, died 1621, and had: John Bolton, Parish Clerk, born 1615, died 1688, who had: John Bolton of Wales, Yorkshire, born 1658, died 1714; married Ann, died circa 1711, and had: Robert Bolton, born 1685, died 1742; emigrated to America 1718; married Ann Curtis, born 1694, married 1721, died 1747 (widow of Robert Clay and daughter of Winlock Curtis, son of John Curtis, of Kent, in Delaware, member of Penn's Council), and had:

- I. Robert Bolton, born 1722, died 1769; married 1747, Susannah Mauve, born 1729.
- II. John Bolton, born 1726, died 1781; married 1771, Eleanor Bolton.
- III. Ann Bolton, married 1750, John Bolton, son of Robert Bolton.

IV. Mary Bolton, married Governor James Habersham.

V. Rebecca Bolton, d. s. p.

We thus see the Bolton family descends from the families of Assheton, Byron, Lever, Hulton and many others, and of twice Royal lineage through the family of Barnard who married James Byron, and through the Hulton-Pilkington line.

According to the "English and Foreign Baronetages," by Burke, Sir John Assheton married second, a daughter of Sir John Byron named Mary—others call her Margaret, which Margaret is stated by "Scotsman Robertson et Durbin" to have married twice: First Sir William Atherton; second, Sir Maurice Berkeley. She may have married a third time. Now Foster, in his "Families of Lancashire," states that in order to correct certain errors he has compiled these tables of Lancashire families, and he distinctly shows that Sir John Assheton married a second time a daughter of John Byron of Clayton.

Sir John Assheton by his second marriage to Mary or Margaret Byron had, besides others: Sir Ralph Assheton, who married Margaret, daughter of John Barton of Middleton, and had: Ralph Assheton, his second son, who married Margaret, daughter of Adam Lever of Great Lever, and had: Ralph Assheton of Great Lever, who married Despard Hulton, daughter of Adam Hulton of Hulton Park, of an ancient family, and had: Ralph Assheton who married Margaret, daughter of William Giffell of Turton Tower, and had, besides others: Eleanor Assheton. Foster's History of Families of Lancashire. Now according to the Harleian MSS., referred to in the Memoirs of the Bolton family (page 104), it is stated that Eleanor Assheton was the daughter of Ralph, son of Richard, which is consistent, as Ralph Assheton was the father of Richard, and there were sons of Ralph Assheton, Lord of Great Lever. Now Eleanor Assheton was unquestionably the daughter of one of the Ralph Asshetons descended from Byron marriage, and although Foster does not give the marriage the author of this article has assigned to Eleanor Assheton, the daughter of Ralph Assheton, second son of Margaret the daughter of John Barton, and second wife of Sir John Assheton, the name of the Eleanor Assheton referred to in Harleian MSS. There may have history or charts of Lancashire. He also gives Sir Thomas Assheton as having married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Byron of Clayton, and says also that Sir John Assheton married second a daughter of John Byron, Esq. of Clayton, County Lancashire. Stemmata Robertson et Durbin only gives the marriage of Sir Thomas Assheton to Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Byron of Clayton, and does not give the marriage of Sir John Assheton to a daughter of Sir John Byron. Other authorities settle this point and show a positive descent. See further back.

BYRON

The ancestor¹ of this ancient line was Ralph du Burun, Burun, Biron, or Byron, of Horstan Castle, living in 1088, who was the possessor of several Lordships, and from whom Lord Byron, the famous poet descends. His son Hugh du Burun, Lord of Horstan Castle, County Derby, had a son Hugh du Burun, Lord of Horstan Castle, temp. Henry II, and he had a son, Sir Roger or Ralph de Burun, living 1218, who married Nicola de Verdon, daughter of Roland de Verdon, and had Robert de Byron (the name appears to have at this time been changed to Byron), who married Cecelin Clayton, an heiress, daughter of Theobald, son of Richard Clayton of Clayton, County Lancaster. By this marriage Robert de Byron had: Robert de Byron, Lord of Clayton, living 1188, who married Maud, living 1292, and had: John de Byron, Lord of Clayton, Governor of York, who obtained Rochdale by marriage. He was living 1295; married Jean or Joan, living 1309, heiress of Rochdale, stated to be the widow of Sir Robert Holland and daughter of Sir Baldwin Thins or Sir Baldwin Teutonleus or de Tyas, and had Sir John de Byron, Lord of Clayton, living 1318, who married Alice Banasire, cousin and heiress of Robert Banasire of Hynselay, County Lancaster, and had: Sir Richard de Byron, M. P., Lord of Clayton and Colenay, living 1308-1343, died ante 1349, who by his second marriage, to Elizabeth, had Sir James Byron, died ante 1350; married Elizabeth Berwake, Barnake or Barnack² and had:

I. Sir John Byron, killed by Edward III, Siege of Calais

II. Sir John Byron, married Joan de Clarendon, died daughter and co-heiress of William de Colewick of Colewick, Nottingham, who married Joan de Peche, daughter of John de Peche and Alice Hayward, daughter of Sir William Hayward and Joan de Huntingfield, daughter of Sir Savin de Huntingfield.

By this marriage there was Sir John de Byron of Clayton, Member of Parliament 1428, who married Marjory, daughter of John Booth of Barton, son of John Booths by a daughter of Sir Henry Trafford of Trafford; son of Sir Thomas Booth of Barton by Ellen, daughter of Thomas de Workesley of Workesley; son of John Booth by Agnes Barton, daughter of Sir Gilbert de Barton; son of William Booth, living 1275, by Sibil, daughter of Sir Ralph de Bereton; son of Adam de Booth or Booths.

Sir John Byron of Clayton and Marjory Booth had issue:

1. Richard Byron.
2. Sir Nicholas Byron, married a daughter of Sir John Boteler of Beausay, and was ancestor of Lord Byron.
3. Margaret Byron, married first, Sir William Assheton; married second, Sir Maurice Berkeley. (She perhaps married third, Sir John de Assheton as his second wife.)
4. Elizabeth Byron, married Thomas Assheton.
5. Jane Byron, married William Redclyffe.
6. Catherine Byron, married William Bereton.
7. Helena Byron, married ————

Of this marriage of Sir John Byron was a Margaret or Mary Byron who, according to authorities cited below, married Sir John de Assheton as his second wife. Sir John de Assheton's son by first marriage, Thomas Assheton, married Elizabeth Byron.

Note.—Sir John Byron had a daughter Margaret or Mary who, according to both Burke and Foster, married as his second wife Sir John de Assheton, as heretofore stated. Foster says daughter of John Byron, Esq., of Clayton; Burke says Sir John of Clayton. Other authority places her as daughter of Sir John Byron by Alice Boteler, but it was the son Nicholas who married Alice Boteler. See Robertson et Dublin.

HULTON OF HULTON PARK

This ancient family¹ of the County of Lancashire, England, is found at an early date and may be considered one of the best of the old landed gentry of England embracing amongst its alliances many families of standing, such as the Blackburns, Radclyffes of Radclyffe Tower, Levers, Lechs, Harringtons, Plikingtons and others. The interest in the family centers in the fact of its connection with the family of Assheton, through which descends the family of Bolton of Georgia and through which descend branches of the families of Habersham, King, Colquitt, Bullen, Adams, McBryde, Newell, Turner and others.

The first of this ancient name was Blethyn de Hulton, County Lancaster, temp Henry II., who had servith or Yarrowit, who had Richard, whose son was David de Hulton, senior Lord of Hulton, who married Agnes de Blackburn, daughter of Adam, son of Henry de Blackburn, and had:

I. Richard de Hulton of Hulton Park, temp Edward I.; married Margeria, daughter of Robert de Radclyffe of Radclyffe Tower, son of Adam de Radclyffe by a daughter of Alan Curwen Vel Curwen of Camerton; son of William de Radclyffe of Radclyffe Tower by Cecelia de Montbagon, Lady of Kirkland.

II. John de Hulton, who married Joan, daughter of Richard de Manchester.

We will subsequently show that these two lines come together several times, and will proceed to give the elder line first.

Richard de Hulton and Margeria de Radclyffe had:

1. Adam de Hulton, who married Avicia, daughter of Alicia de Eccles, and had:

1. Roger de Hulton, who married Alyne, daughter of Adam de Lever of Great Lever, who had married Agnes Holton, daughter of Henry de Hulton by the daughter of Thomas de Hulton of Hulton.

¹ We only give the lines which affect the descent of those families which descend from the line, as there were many other children of the family.

Roger de Hulton and Alyne Lever had:

1. Roger de Hulton, who married Agnes Legh, daughter of Robert Legh of Adlington, County Clester; son or descendant of Robert Legh of Adlington by Matilda, daughter of Sir John de Arden by Elena de Warenays; the son of John Legh who married Elen, daughter of Robert Dent.

John Legh assumed the name of Legh from his mother's side of the house, his mother, Agnes Legh, having married second, William Venables, the second son of Sir William Venables, Baron of Kinderton. Agnes Legh was the daughter of Richard de Legh, descendant of William de Legh of Werthall, son of Hamon, Lord of Mediety or Medely.

Roger de Hulton and Agnes Legh had: Adam de Hulton of Hulton Park, who had: Roger de Hulton, who married a kinswoman, Elena de Hulton, daughter of John de Hulton of Farnsworth by Isabella, daughter of William Atherton; son of William de Hulton by a daughter of Arden of Hawarden; son of John de Hulton by Alicia, daughter of Adam or Allen de Radclyffe of Radclyffe Tower and Avica, daughter of Hugh Birchwood; son of Robert de Radclyffe of Radclyffe Tower; son of Adam de Radclyffe by a daughter of Adam or Alan Culwen Vel Curwen of Camerton, a kinswoman; son of William de Radclyffe of Radclyffe Tower by Cecelia de Montbagon, Lady of Kirkland.

Roger de Hulton of Hulton and his spouse Elena de Hulton had: Roger de Hulton of Hulton, who had: Roger de Hulton, who married Katherine, daughter of Sir James Harrington of Wolfedge; son of Sir Nicholas Harrington; son of Robert de Harrington by a daughter of Banister; son of Robert de Harrington or Harrington, who married Agnes de Cancefield, sister and heiress of William de Cancefield; son of Richard de Cancefield by Alice, sister and heiress of Michael, son of William de Cancefield; son of Michael Fleming, all Lords of that manor.

Roger de Hulton and Katherine Harrington had:

1. Adam de Hulton, who married Alicia, the daughter of John de Hulton of Farnsworth and Elizabeth Pullington, whose descent appears to be as follows:

Leonard de Pilkington, Lord of Pilkington or Stand, had :

I. Sir Edward Pilkington.

II. Sir Thomas Pilkington, who married Isabel, daughter of Sir John Warren of Foynton¹, a younger branch of the Earls of Warren, heirs of the Royal line through Elizabeth de Vermandois, daughter of Hugh, the Great, Count of Vermandois. From Sir Thomas Pilkington descended Sir Thomas, who had Sir James. As this is the only family of Pilkington, Elizabeth must descend from this line.

John de Hulton of Farnsworth was son of William de Hulton and Margaret, daughter of Hugh Tyldesly; son of James de Hulton of Farnham and Elizabeth Radclyffe; son of John de Hulton of Farnsworth and Isabella, daughter of William Atherton; son of William de Hulton by a daughter of Ardern of Hawarden; son of John de Hulton by Alicia, daughter of Adam or Allan de Radclyffe; son of Henry de Hulton and Agnes Bowden; son of John de Hulton and Joan de Manchester; brother of Richard, sons of David de Hulton and Agnes Blackburn.

Adam de Hulton and Alicia de Hulton had, among others : Elena de Hulton, who married Ralph Assheton of Great Lever and had a daughter or granddaughter Eleanor Assheton, who married William Bolton of Little Bolton and Blackburn, 1523-5, died 1550, son of Robert Boulton of Boulton 1487, by Ann, daughter of Nicholas Rushton.

Ralph Assheton of Great Lever was son of Sir Ralph Assheton, second son, who was of Great Lever, who married Margaret Lever, heiress of Great Lever, daughter of Adam Lever of Great Lever; son of Sir Ralph Assheton of Middleton, second son, by Margaret, daughter of John Barton of Middleton; son of Sir John de Assheton, Knight of the Bath 1429, by Margaret, daughter of Sir Joan Byron of Clayton by Margery Booth, daughter of John Booth by a daughter of Sir Henry Traiford of Traiford; son of Sir Thomas Booth by Ellen, daughter of Thomas de Workesley of Workesley; son of John de Booth and Agnes, daughter of Sir Gilbert de Barton; son of Thomas, second of John Booths, living 1275, by Sibyl, daughter of Sir Ralph de Bereton; son of Adam de Booths.

John de Hulton, brother of Richard de Hulton, sons of David de Hulton and Agnes Blackburn, married Joan, daughter of Richard de Mencester, and had:

I. Henry de Hulton, who married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Bowden of Bowden.

II. Agnes de Hulton, married Adam de Lever of Great Lever. Henry de Hulton and Agnes Bowden had:

1. John de Hulton, who married Alicia, daughter of Adam or Allan de Radelyffe by Avica, daughter of Hugh Birchwood. Adam de Radelyffe was son of Robert de Radelyffe of Radelyffe Tower; son of Adam de Radelyffe by a daughter of Culwen Vel Curwen of Cameron, son of William de Radelyffe by Cecelia de Montbegen, Lady of Kirkland.

John de Hulton and Alicia de Radelyffe had: William de Hulton, who married a daughter of Arden of Hawarden and had: John de Hulton of Farnsworth, who married Isabella, daughter of William de Atherston, and had:

1. James de Hulton of Farn, married Elizabeth Radelyffe.

2. Eleanor de Hulton, married Roger de Hulton of Hulton.

James de Hulton of Farn and Elizabeth Radelyffe had: William de Hulton, who married Margaret, daughter of Hugh Tyldesley, and had: John de Hulton, of Farnsworth, who married Elizabeth Pilkington¹ and had:

1. Alicia de Hulton, married Adam de Hulton of Hulton and had: Elenore de Hulton, who married Ralph Assheton of Great Lever and had, among others, a daughter or granddaughter Eleanor, who married William Bolton of Little Bolton and Blackburn, son of Robert Boulton of Boulton by Ann, daughter of Nicholas Rushton.

Eleanor Assheton and William Bolton had: Adam Bolton of Blackburn 1629, who had: Richard Bolton of Brookhouse 1645, who had: Adam Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1683, who had: Gyles Bolton of the Brookhouse, died 1714; married: Margaret, died 1621, and had: John Bolton, Parish Clerk, born 1615, died 1638, who had: John Bolton, born 1640, died 1658, who had: John Bolton, born 1642, died 1658, who had: John Bolton, born 1644, died 1658.

The Family of Legh or Leigh of Adlington and Lyme.

Hamon, Lord of the Mediety of High Leigh, temp Henry II., was father of William de Legh of West Hall in High Lee, who had Richard de Legh, whose daughter Alice by a second marriage to William Veneours of Bradwell, second son of Sir William Veneables of Bradwell, Baron of Kinderton, had John, who assumed the name of Legh and was proprietor of Knutsford Booth. John Legh by a first marriage had a son, Sir John Legh. John Legh of Knutsford married, second, Ellen, daughter of Robert Dent of Cheshire; but according to The History of the Commoners he married a daughter of Thomas De Corona, by whom he had: Robert De Leigh of Adlington, who married, according to one authority, Sibill, daughter of Henry Hanford of Hanford; but according to The History of the Commoners by Burke, he married Matilda, daughter of Adam De Norlay, and had:

- I. Sir Robert Leigh of Adlington.
- II. Sir Peter Leigh, of Maxfield and Lyme.

Sir Robert Leigh of Adlington married Matilda, daughter of Sir John De Aldern of Alford and Alvord, and had a son, Robert Leigh of Adlington.

Sir Peter Leigh of Lyme married Margaret, widow of Sir John Savage of Clifton, Knight, and daughter of Sir John de Olivers.

¹ See pages under Legh and Leigh, vols. 2 and 3. Burke's Commoners and Extinct Peerages.

Knight of Bradley, and had: Sir Peter Leigh, Knight Banneret, who married Jean, daughter of Sir Gilbert Haydock, Knight, and had: Sir Peter Leigh, Knight, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux.

As there was a marriage of Assheton to a daughter of Parlyne De Lelish of Lyme mentioned by Foster, and as there was a marriage of a Hulton to a Lady of Adlington by same author, but as neither he nor Burke gives the parentage of either, nor the marriages, we consider the descent of Assheton from one of the three lines of Lyme, and the descent of the Hulton-Leigh marriage from either the first or third Robert Leigh of Adlington of branches of the families of Bolton, Adame, Habersham, Kirg, Fulloen, Colquhitt, Newell and others, from Charlemagne the Great, through the families of Byron, Hulton, Barnake or Barwake, Dryby, and de Fatesnall.

Charlemagne or Charles the Great married Heldegrade of Suabia and had: Louis the Pious, who married Judith of Astorp and had: Charles the Bold, who married Hermengrude of Orleans and had: Louis III. Baldus, who married Adeheia and had: Charles IV. of France who married Edgiva of England and had: Louis IV., who married Gerberga of Germany and had: Charles, Duke of Lorraine, who married ——— and had: Gerberga, heiress of the House of Charlemagne, who married Lambert, Duke of Brabant, and had: Lambert II., Duke of Brabant, who married Oda of Lorraine, daughter of Gothello, Duke of Lorraine, by Uria, daughter of Brendus, King of Italy.

From this marriage we find Henry II., Duke of Brabant, who married Adela of Thuringia and had: Godfrey Barbatus, Duke of Brabant, who married Ida de Namur and had: I. Adelysa, who married, first, Henry I., King of England with issue. She married secondly, William de Albini, Count of Mowbray, son of wife Earl of Sussex; son of William de Albini and Maud Bigod; son of Roger de Albini by ——— Mowbray, sister of De Mowbray, Earl of Northumberland.

William de Albini and Adelyse of Lorraine had: William de Albini, second Earl of Arundel, who married Ales, daughter of Alexander I., King of Scotland, and had: William de Albini, third Earl of Arundel, who married Maud, the sister of James de St. Hilary. She married second, Roger de Clare, Earl of Pembroke. William de Albini, third Earl of Arundel, and Maud de St. Hilary had:

I. Mabel de Albini, who married Sir Robert de Tateshall and had: I. Sir Robert de Tateshall, who had: Jane de Tateshall,¹ who married Sir Robert Dryby and had: Ales Dryby, who married Sir William Barnake or Bernake and had: I. Elizabeth Barnake, who married Sir James Byron and had a son, Sir Richard Byron, who married Jean de Colewick, daughter of William de Colewick, and had: Sir John Byron of Clayton, who married Margaret Booth and had, besides others: Elizabeth Byron, who married Sir Thomas Assheton, son of Sir John Assheton by his first marriage to Jane Seville, and thus carried on the eldest line of Assheton.

According to the "Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies," by Burke, Sir John Assheton married second, a daughter of Sir John Byron named Mary—others call her Margaret, which Margaret is stated by "Stemmata Robertson et Durbin" to have married twice: first, Sir William Anneton; second, Sir Maurice Berkley. She may have married a third time. Now Foster, in his "Families of Lancashire," states that in order to correct certain errors he has compiled these tables of Lancashire families, and he distinctly shows that Sir John Assheton married a second time a daughter of John Byron of Clayton.

Sir John Assheton by his second marriage to Mary or Margaret Byron had, besides others: Sir Ralph Assheton, who married Margaret, daughter of John Barton of Middleton, and had: Ralph Assheton, his second son, who married Margaret, daughter of Adam Lever of Great Lever, and had: Ralph Assheton of Great Lever, who married Eleanor Hulton, daughter of Adora Hulton of Hulton P. O., of an ancient family and had: Ralph Assheton, who married Elizabeth, daughter of William, Earl of Durham.

² Foster's Charts of Lancashire Families.

Tower, and had, besides others: Eleanor Assheton (Foster's History of Families of Lancashire). Now according to the Harleian MSS. referred to in the Memoirs of the Bolton Family, page 104, it is stated that Eleanor Assheton was the daughter of Ralph, son of Richard, which is a mistake, as Ralph Assheton was the brother of Richard and these were sons of Ralph Astleton, Lord of Great Lever. Now Eleanor Assheton was unquestionably the daughter of one of the Ralph Asshetons descended of the Byron marriage, and although Foster does not give the marriage the author of this article has assigned to Eleanor Assheton, the daughter of Ralph Assheton and Margaret Orrell as the Eleanor who married William Bolton which in point of dates would be the Eleanor Assheton referred to in Harleian MSS. There may have been an Eleanor prior to this one, but the main point to be considered is that an Eleanor Assheton descended from Ralph Assheton (and Margaret Lever), son of Sir Ralph Assheton and Margaret Barton, son of Sir John Assheton by second marriage to Mary or Margaret Byron, daughter of John Byron, Esq., of Clayton, County Lancaster, England. Thus then do we see that the Bolton family who went first to Philadelphia, Pa. and then to Georgia and Maryland, was of Royal lineage. Many are the descendants of this ancient family whose lines from Bolton can be easily deduced.

ii. Bayard Stockton, third.

iii. Charlotte Stockton.

NOTE.—This information was furnished the author by Mrs. Bayard Stockton, of Morven, Princeton, New Jersey, a descendant of the Bayard family. The Stocktons of Princeton, N. J., belong also this honorable descent, descend from the Potter family, and through it from Fuller and Drayton of South Carolina. (See Family of Foker in Family of Cuthbert of Castle Hill, by the author.) See Bulloch Family for descent of branch of Potter from Gen. Noble Jones and Grimes. See also Family of Stockton.

DE VEAUX—FOULKE

André De Veaux, the Huguenot, is found in South Carolina as early as 1714, and it is said that he came of a family resident in Brittany. In 1754 he made his will as André De Veaux, gentleman, leaving to his sons, Andrew, James and John De Veaux, and grandson Jacob, son of Israel De Veaux, &c.

From Honorable Colonel James De Veaux the Bulloch family of Georgia descend, as also a branch of Roosevelt through Bulloch, from whom the late ex-President, U. S. Theodore Roosevelt descended. From Andrew De Veaux, son of André, the families of Foulke and others of Philadelphia, Pa., descend.

Andrew De Veaux, second, married Hannah, daughter of the gallant Col. John Palmer, who was on the Ojethene Expedition in 1740 against the Spaniards. He married Elizabeth Bellinger, daughter of Edmund Bellinger, first ancestor of the name in South Carolina.

Andrew De Veaux and Hannah Palmer had: Andrew De Veaux, third, who married Catharine Barnwell, daughter of John, son of Col. John Barnwell, who was a very prominent citizen of South Carolina, Secretary of the Council of the Province, and a member of the Council of the Executive, and last time President of the Council in 1770. See also Mr. Berners.

Andrew De Veaux and Catharine Barnwell had:

i. Col. Andrew De Veaux, who married Ann Maria Verplanck and had:

¹See History and Genealogy of Families of Bellinger and De Veaux.

1. Julia De Veaux, married Col. John Hare-Powel.
2. Augusta De Veaux, married Philip Verplanck.

Col. John Hare Powel, of Powelton (now part of Philadelphia, Pa.), assumed the name of Powel, and of the Leislature. He was the son of Robert and Margaret (Willing) Hare, of Philadelphia, Pa., and grandson of Richard and Martha Hare and Hare, of Limhouse (now a part of London, England), and also maternally grandson of Thomas and Ann (Shippen) Willing, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Col. John Hare Powel and Julia De Veaux had, among others: Julia De Veaux Powel, who married William Parker Foulke and had, among others, George Phylford Foulke, who married Jean Du Val Leiper Kane and had issue.

DU PONT

As a branch of the family of Foulke descends from the Bayard family, and as a branch of the ancient family of du Pont of Delaware descends from Bayard, Foulke and De Veaux, we have inserted in its appropriate place the de-cent of these lines.

As the du Ponts of South Carolina belong to one of the various lines of du Pont, we herewith insert a short account of the South Carolina family, as given the author by Coleman du Pont, Esq., of Wilmington, Delaware, but arranged in different form.

Jean du Pont, born in France in 1631, and died 1710; married, September 17, 1653, Marie du Bass, who was born June 6, 1632, and died March 5, 1676. Their son, Abraham du Pont, was born at Rouen, France, December 9, 1653, and went to London 1681, where he became naturalized as a British subject April 15, 1683. He emigrated to America about 1694, and went to South Carolina about 1695-6, and died in St. James Parish, Goose Creek, about 1720.

He married, June 3, 1697, at Charleston, S. C., Ann Faucheraud, born at Port des Barques, France, in 1678. She was the daughter of Charles Faucheraud and Ann Vignaud.

Abraham du Pont and Ann Faucheraud had:

- I. Anne du Pont, born in St. James Parish, Goose Creek, in 1709; married Daniel Deane.

DUNWODY

Dr. James Dunwody went to Georgia about 1770 and was one of the first physicians to practice medicine in Liberty County, Ga., then St. Johns Parish. He became a member of the first Executive Council of Georgia during the time of the Revolutionary War. He married Mrs. Esther Splatt, née Deane, daughter of Abraham Deane, born 1704, and Ann du Pont, and had:

Information of Coleman du Pont.

* See pages 152 and 154, Haversham Book, in which he is called Abraham Deane; and Daniel Deane by the du Pont Chart.

- I. Col. James Dunwoody, married Elizabeth West Smith and had issue.
- II. John Dunwoody married, June 7, 1808, Jane Bulloch and had issue.
- III. Esther Dunwoody, married Senator John Elliott and had:
 - I. Hester A. Elliott, married Major James Stephen Bulloch, his first wife.

NOTES.

Pages 12 and 23. It has now been definitely determined that the descent of the Balthazer Bayard who married Mary Bowdoin is as follows:

Balthazer Bayard, who married Mary Lockermans, had, among others: Jacobus Bayard, who married Hulegend de Kay and had: Balthazer Bayard, who married Mary, daughter of Pierre Bowdoin, and was the ancestor of the St. Clairs and others.

We have been unable to get the line of Richard Henry Bayard, who married a Miss Carroll, of Maryland; but among the grandchildren we find Richard Henry Bayard and Ellen Howard Bayard, of Baltimore, Maryland, whose mother was Ellen Howard, who as we see, descended from the Carroll and Howard families, and others mentioned in this work.

The Royal descent of Alexander as given on page 21 is more in conformity with the descent of Alexander from McDonald than that on page 19. Omit on page 19 lines 11 and 12 from the top and consider that Alexander, number III, son of Donald McDonald, as the progenitor of Alexander of Metstry.

According to one version of the descent of Bayard, as furnished by a member of the family, the line would be as follows from the Rev. Nicholas Bayard: Lazare Bayard married Judith Bayers and had: Samuel Bayard, born 1810; married, 1824, Ann Stuyvesant and had the issue as given. Lazare Bayard is also stated to have married Judith de Vos. He may have married first as second wife, although it is also stated that Rev. Balthazer Bayard married Judith de Vos. It therefore appears most probable that the line of descent as given on page 21 is the correct one, and that the name of Balthazer came into the family through Rev. Balthazer Stuyvesant, whose daughter Ann married Samuel Bayard. Hence we deduce the descent of the line as follows:

Rev. Nicholas Bayard, a pastor of a church in Holland, had: Lazare Bayard, married Judith Bayers, whose son (possibly grandson) Samuel married Ann, daughter of Rev. Balthazer Stuyvesant, and had those already stated.

It is interesting to note that a branch of the family at Pont de Veudry, not only from the Bayard and the Kane families, but through the Hare-

Powels from Col. Andrew De Veaux, son of Andrew De Veaux and Catharine Barnwell, son of Andrew De Veaux and Hannah Pullner, daughter of Col. John Pullner and Elizabeth, daughter of Landgrave Edmund Bellinger, one of the Colonial nobility of South Carolina. The last Andrew De Veaux was son of André De Veaux, the Huguenot, who was in South Carolina in 1714.

It is also pleasant to note that Doctor James Dunwoody, who was one of the earliest practitioners in Georgia, and of the first Executive Council in 1775-8, married Esther Spauld, widow, daughter of Abraham or Daniel Deane, born 1784, who married Ann Dupont. There was a Gideon Dupont who was church warden of St. James, Goose Creek, 1746. As the South Carolina DuPonts were remotely related to the Delaware line, they both came evidently from the noble line of du Pont. The late distinguished James Dunwoody Bunch, C. S. Agent abroad, descended from the Elliots, Dunwoody and Duponts.

Windebanke, in St. Martins in the Fields. Sir Thomas Windebanke married Frances, daughter of Sir Edward Dymoke, and had, among others: Mildred, who married Robert Reade of Paeconib (page 123, Middlesex Pedigrees, Harleian Publications). See in Preface, article in relation to Reade.

The author takes the pleasure of thanking Thomas F. Bayard, of Wilmington, Del.; Miss Constant Bayard, of Dauphin, Pa.; Miss Florence Bayard Kane, John Kent Kane, Mrs. LaFarge and others, for aid furnished in getting up the later records of this distinguished line of Bayard of Pennsylvania and Delaware.
